Candidate Profiles

NAME: Paul Keighley

Paul is an experienced environmental practitioner, working across public and private sectors, and holds three degrees in environmental science, law and international relations. His professional experience is supplemented by governance roles in the not-for-profit and academic sectors with responsibilities across Australia and New Zealand, including over seven years on Boards.

Currently, Paul is Assistant Director of the Policy and Reform Branch at the Australian Government's Department of the Environment. His career to date has included: delivery of environmental impact assessments for major urban, infrastructure and other developments; and the implementation of significant policy and regulatory reforms across the environment portfolio.

Paul joined the EIANZ as a student member in 2001. As Vice-President (Australia), Paul would build on his achievements in his many Institute roles, including as vice-president of the NSW Division, Chair of the Students and Early Careers Committee and, since election in 2013, Institute Secretary. In particular, Paul would focus on increasing the profile of the Institute, improving member services and enhancing youth engagement.

Outside the office, Paul is a dedicated Ultimate Frisbee player, coach, organiser and spectator. He lives in Canberra with his partner Sam and together they enjoy travelling, sports, beer and brunch, not necessarily in moderation.

NAME: Vicki Brady

Vicki Brady, SEQ President, has been a member of EIANZ since 2008. Prior to taking up this role in 2013, Vicki chaired both the SEQ Division Students and Young Professionals and Professional Development Committees. Vicki has previously held a role in the National Students and Early Careers Committee (2011 - 2012) and currently holds the position of Deputy Chair of the Board Advisory Council. A Certified Environmental Practitioner, Vicki was the winner of the 2012 Tor Hundloe Award for Young Environmental Practitioner of the Year.

A strong advocate for maximising member value, Vicki is focused on all Divisions, large and small, and bringing the full EIANZ experience to everyone. As Vice President (Australia), Vicki plans to increase membership through greater engagement of smaller Divisions and regional members, as well as increasing collaboration and diversity across EIANZ.

An engaging leader, Vicki has ensured ethical conduct remained at the forefront of the SEQ Division's activities and events over her seven successful years for the SEQ Division. As Vice President (Australia), Vicki will apply her talent for delivering local successes to a broader platform, bringing these skills and achievements to the EIANZ at a national level.
