

WELCOMING OUR NEW FELLOWS

The EIANZ Board is pleased to announce the appointment of four new Fellows. The status of Fellow is recognition of the leading role that a member has played in the environment profession. It is a well-deserved acknowledgement of their professional standing and commitment to ethical practice over an extended period. Congratulations to these worthy recipients!

MARK BELLINGHAM
FEIANZ, CENVP
(ECOLOGY)

Mark is a Principal Ecologist and strategic planner with over 30 years-experience in ecosystem management, statutory planning, and ecological research in New Zealand and the Pacific. He has worked in private practice as an advisor and consultant to central and local Government and private clients. He has been an Environmental Planning lecturer at Auckland and Massey Universities. He has worked in the environmental NGO sector in New Zealand as a planner and programme manager for national non-government organisations, as well as being appointed to a number of government and ministerial advisory panels. Mark has worked with Hapu and Iwi organisations for the protection of the marine environment and wild rivers, and with local communities on environmental restoration projects.

Mark's ability to facilitate and form strong and enduring relationships amongst key stakeholders is a hallmark of his practice and his influence on environmental outcomes. As an environmental practitioner, Mark has achieved a sustained record of leadership, contribution and influence within the environmental sector in New Zealand.

VICKI BRADY
FEIANZ, CEnvP

Vicki Brady is recognised for her expertise in the avoidance and mitigation of environmental impacts associated with energy and linear infrastructure projects. She has extensive senior experience in impact assessment and the implementation of environmental approvals. Vicki is known as a champion and leader of good environmental practice.

With qualifications in environmental science and the management of environmental change, Vicki Brady has experience in the UK and multiple Australian jurisdictions. She is a Certified Environmental Practitioner and has a well-developed understanding of environmental science and its application to practice. She has honed her skills in building and providing senior leadership to teams that deliver projects without compromising environmental outcomes.

Vicki Brady is a champion of the environment profession and is currently the Vice President (Australia) of the EIANZ. Through leadership roles in the EIANZ and other professional organisations she makes a significant contribution to the environment profession.

WELCOMING OUR NEW FELLOWS

KIM MCCLYMONT
FEIANZ CEnvP

Kim McClymont has been a member of EIANZ for over 20 years and a major contributor to the NSW Division and Committee for most of this time. He has been a dedicated environmental professional in the NSW public sector for most of his career and most recently as a senior officer in the Office of Environment & Heritage, National Parks & Wildlife Service.

Kim is a natural educator and has established himself as an authority and leader in the area of indigenous knowledge, awareness and education. He has proven to be a valuable asset to not only the Institute in this regard, but also to his employer, the NSW government and the environment profession generally. He is a most worthy candidate for the award of Fellow of EIANZ.

BRONTE NIXON
FEIANZ, CEnvP
(IMPACT ASSESSMENT)

Bronte Nixon is highly regarded for her expertise and technical excellence in environmental impact assessment. Bronte's robust approach to EIA reflects a strong commitment to ethical practice and she is trusted for providing sound environment and planning advice on complex projects.

Bronte has made significant contributions to the environment profession, including authoring several published articles, presenting at national and international conferences and through her role as an EIANZ Impact Assessment Specialist and Certified Environmental Practitioner.

Bronte is an industry recognised leader in the delivery of renewable energy projects and has furthered industry knowledge in this area through her commitment to achieving best-practice.

Bronte has had a profound impact on the careers of several young professionals within the environment profession through her capacity as a leader and mentor. She is extremely deserving of recognition and is a worthy recipient of an EIANZ Fellowship.
